Tillman on Cleveland.

No one man ever shook up the United States Senate so thoroughly sion to give tariff reform to the peoas was done the other day by Tillnan, the South Carolina firebrand, who has kept quiet for two months, but who evidently has been storing up venom all the time. Some of his sentences will go down into the history of the Senate. For instance, Tillman did not hesitate to say that many of his colleagues did not know when to stop in making speeches and alked in a circle, "like a kitten folowing its own tail." It was when ne came to discuss President Cleve- his American agents graciously conand that Tillman reached the hight of his virulence. He described the scene in what he pronounced the "Palmmer" House, where "All the demons in hell were collected in one group shouting for Grover." As he went on democrats and Republicans alike shuddered as he spoke of the President as "That bull-headed and self-idolatrous man who holds the reins of power." He declared furthermore with much solemnity that Grover Cleveland was the last president the democracy would ever elect.

He concluded his speech with the prediction that this country would yet wade through seas of blood and the president. Why is he not immerge either a despotism or such a democracy as was intended to be
